Readers will note a new editorial format for Transformation. We are now creating two separate categories, one of editors within the country who can play a supporting task for the journal, and another, of foreign editors, who will also be able to aid the journal but inevitably at a greater distance. The present list is still somewhat incomplete as we await correspondence with nominated individuals.

PUBLICATION GUIDELINES:
We ask contributors to submit two (2) typed copies, following the format (on such issues as references and notes) of articles in this issue of TRANSFORMATION. Whilst the journal will cater for work at any level of abstraction, or detail, a number of criteria will guide the editors in selection of material for inclusion. Articles should aim for academic rigour but also clarify the political implications of the issues discussed. We are concerned not to compete with other South African journals that may cover related ground but in different ways - this will govern our selection principles. All articles will be assessed anonymously by the referees. Contributions should preferably not exceed the following lengths:

Analytical articles: 7 000 words
Debates and review articles: 3 000 words

The views expressed in TRANSFORMATION do not necessarily reflect those of the editors.

BEYOND CORPORATISM - TOWARDS NEW FORMS OF PUBLIC POLICY FORMULATION IN SOUTH AFRICA  1

In this journal and elsewhere, corporatism has been explored as a way of understanding new attempts at managing economic conflict and social change in transitional South Africa. GEOFF SCHREINER explores the limits of this concept and suggests new approaches to understanding the phenomenon.

COOPERATION AND CONSCIOUSNESS: DEMOCRACY AND AUTHORITY IN SOUTHERN AFRICAN PRODUCER COOPERATIVES  23

Perhaps at the opposite end of the spectrum from corporatism is the co-operative model - democratic decision-making by workers. Trade unions have sponsored co-operatives in recent years in South Africa and MICHELLE ADATO evaluates how they are evolving.

THE NEW ECONOMIC POLICY AND REDISTRIBUTION IN MALAYSIA: A MODEL FOR POST-APARTHEID SOUTH AFRICA  44

After a decade of economic stagnation, South Africans are easily swayed by models of spectacular growth which seem to solve development problems parallel to our own. Amongst the second generation of Newly Industrialised Countries, the model of choice is clearly ethnically divided, ex-colonial Malaysia. GILLIAN HART considers the value of the Malaysian model for South Africa in this article.

TOWARDS A NEW RURAL SOCIAL GOVERNMENT SYSTEM IN SOUTH AFRICA: POSSIBLE OPTIONS . . . . . 64
The present unsatisfactory system of rural administration is criticised by ALASTAIR MCINTOSH, who argues for an alternative and a way of transforming existing structures.

OVERCOMING THE SISTERHOOD MYTH . . . . . . . . . . 78
"Sisters", despite some utopian feminist thinking, do not all really share the same objectives or outlook. Yet FIDELA FOUCHE believes that there may be a way out of this dilemma that can maintain the integrity of a feminist movement.
