A DIRECTORY OF "SPIRITUAL CHURCHES"¹
IN GHANA

by Kofi Asare Opoku*

A major problem facing a researcher in the area of Independent Churches in Ghana, is to know just what churches are in existence, where they are located, when they were founded, who founded them, and their total membership. To meet this need we have embarked on the compilation of a directory at the Institute of African Studies.

It is difficult to give the correct estimate of the number of such groups in Ghana, since their numbers are constantly increasing. Professor Baeta dealt with nine of such groups and he himself called his book "a study of some spiritual churches".² Since the publication of his book many more churches have come into existence. Barrett³ estimated that there were about two hundred such groups in Ghana. In a paper⁴ read at the 1969 Conference of the Historical Society of Ghana, I put their number at about three hundred. But there is reason to expect the figure to be far more than that.

Information for the directory below was gathered through personal acquaintance with some groups; through correspondence with leaders of Spiritual Churches, as well as references to the files of two large associations comprising of Independent Churches, namely, the Pentecostal Association of Ghana, founded in 1962,

* Mr. Kofi Asare Opoku is a Research Fellow in Religion and Ethics.

1. Included under this rubric are Independent Churches, Prayer Groups, and Prayer Circles, and other groups founded by Africans who identify themselves with Christianity and its teachings.
2. Prophetism in Ghana 1965.
3. Schism and Renewal in Africa, Oxford 1968.
4. "A Brief History of Independent Church Movements in Ghana 1862-1969", to be published in the Transactions of the Historical Society of Ghana.

with its headquarters at Bibiani in the Western Region; and the Ghana Council for Liberal Churches, founded in 1968, with headquarters at Accra. Further information was also obtained from the Deeds Registry of the Ministry of Lands and Mineral Resources, where Spiritual Churches are requested to register in accordance with the Trustees Incorporation Act of 1962.

Compilation of the directory is in process and the complete directory will be published as soon as all the available information is in. In the meantime, we furnish the information gathered up to date.

The directory is arranged in chronological order and the addresses, names of founders and dates are furnished where known. Information about total membership has been excluded but an attempt will be made to estimate the total membership of these groups in the complete directory.
