MICHIGAN STATE U N I V E R S I T Y

The African e-Journals Project has digitized full text of articles of eleven social science and humanities journals. This item is from the digital archive maintained by Michigan State University Library. Find more at:

http://digital.lib.msu.edu/projects/africanjournals/

Available through a partnership with

Scroll down to read the article.

PULA

Botswana Journal of African Studies

Contents

Smallpox and History: the Example of Botswana, 1930–1964 'Ditiro Tsa Ditlhabololo': Botswana As A Developmental State 'So Far So Good'?: An Appraisal of Dr. Ng'ombe's 1998 Prophecy on the Fate of the BNF Designing and Coding Survey Instruments for Statistical Analysis

Review Article

Botswana: An African miracle or a case of mistaken identity?

Pula: Botswana Journal of African Studies

A journal devoted to studies of Africa with particular emphasis on southern Africa

EDITORIAL BOARD

Prof. C. Studman, Research and Development, Chairperson

Mr. T. Kebaagetse, Research and Development, Secretary

Prof. I. N. Mazonde, Research and Development

Prof. F. B. Nyamnjoh, Editor

Dr. L. Malete, Faculty of Education

Prof. B. P. Parida, Faculty of Science

Dr. M. Mogalakwe, Faculty of Social Sciences

Dr. J. McAllister, Faculty of Humanities

Ms. G. Mapii, Financial Services

Prof. Neil Parsons, Former Editor

PUBLISHER

Pula: Botswana Journal of African Studies is published by the Research and Development Unit, University of Botswana, Private Bag UB-00708, Gaborone, Botswana; tel: (+267) 355-2904; fax (+267) 357573; email: kebaaget@mopipi.ub.bw.

All editorial correspondence should be addressed to the Editor at this address.

DISTRIBUTOR

Pula: Botswana Journal of African Studies is distributed by the Educational Book Service, Private Bag BR-42, Gaborone, Botswana. e-mail: ivy@ebs.info.bw; fax: (+267) 3900462; tel: (+267) 3904283. All subscription enquiries should be addressed to Ivy at these EBS addresses.

See our web-site http://schapera.fws1.com/pula for details of HOW TO ORDER COPIES and HOW TO CONTRIBUTE AN ARTICLE

ISSN 0256-2316

Contents

2	Francis B. Nyamnjoh
3	European Missionaries and Tswana Identity in the 19 th Century Stephen Volz
20	Smallpox and History the Example of Botswana, 1930-1964 RKK Molefi
37	'Ditiro Tsa Ditlhabololo' Botswana As A Developmental State lan Taylor
51	'So Far So Good'? An Appraisal of Dr. Ng'ombe's 1998 Propheci on the Fate of the BNF Christian John Makgala
67	Designing and Coding Survey Instruments for Statistical Analysis Ntonghanwah Forcheh
85	Review Article Botswana: An African miracle or a case of mistaken identity? Monageng Mogalakwe

Editorial

Neil Parsons has come to the end of his term as editor of Pula. In my capacity as the new editor, I would like to thank him for his sterling effort and dedication to making Pula a journal of quality and excellence in African Studies. It is thanks as well to Neil's relentless determination to promote Pula internationally, that I can proudly announce our official inclusion as part of the African e-Journals Project. This is good news indeed, since the project seeks to provide access to journals from Africa in the U.S.A. and globally with an economically sustainable cost-recovery system that provides fair recompense to African publishers. Coordinated from Michigan State University (MSU), the project is a collaboration of the Association of African Universities (AAU), the African Studies Association in the U.S.A. (ASA), and the Council for the Development of Social Science Research in Africa (CODESRIA). We wish Neil Parsons well in his future endeavours, and are pleased that he will continue to be of service as editorial board member of Pula.

This issue of Pula (Vol.17 No.1) is the first to be published simultaneously in print and on-line. The articles are all on Botswana, and cover a broad range of themes. There is a historical perspective on the crafting of Tswana identity through encounters between European missionaries and various Setswana speaking communities; changing attitudes to disease control informed by different cultural assumptions; the successes and failures of the developmental state and competing interpretations of the 'Botswana miracle'; the challenges of multiparty politics in a context of socio-economic and cultural pluralism; and some empirically grounded tips on how to minimise problems in designing and coding survey instruments on statistical analysis.

While hoping that you find the contents of this issue interesting. I would like to invite submissions from scholars in Africa and elsewhere with a focus on various aspects of society in Africa. As long as you touch on Africa, you touch on something of interest to Pula: Botswana Journal of African Studies.

Francis B. Nyamnjoh