ZAMBEZIA

The publication of Zambezia, a bi-annual journal of the University of Zimbabwe, has been made possible by the generous support of the Publications Committee of the University. The focus of the journal is humanities in Zimbabwe and the surrounding region but special articles of a more general interest are also published. Monograph Supplements to Zambezia cover the main disciplines of the University, and do not necessarily have the same regional focus as Zambezia itself.

REFERENCING

Footnotes are preferred, but referencing by authors, dates and bibliography is acceptable where this is the norm in the relevant discipline. Page references should always be given unless the reference is to a whole book or article.

In either case, full bibliographic information about the source must be given, including:

- In the case of books: surname and initials of the author(s); title of book; place (city/town) of publication; name of publisher; date of publication; edition (if applicable).
- In the case of a collected work: surname and initials of the author(s) of a contribution referred to; title of the contribution; surname and initials of the editor(s); title of book; place (city/town) of publication; name of publisher; date of publication; edition (if applicable); first and last page numbers of the contribution.
- In the case of a journal article: surname and initials of the author(s) of the article; title of the article; title of the journal; date (year) of publication; volume number; issue number (unless the volume is consecutively paginated); first and last page numbers of the article.

In cases of doubt, it is always preferable to give too much information rather than too little.
INTRODUCTION

We are pleased to present this collection of papers on linguistic and language related topics in Zambezia. Paper topics cover the linguistic structure of Shona, Shona socio-linguistics and applied English linguistics. The original idea for this collection first arose from the Tuesday Seminar series in the Department of Linguistics. Presenters in this series have come not only from the Department of Linguistics, but also represent a variety of other departments both within and outside of the Faculty of Arts. The range of research topics made us realise the diversity of linguistic and language expertise to be found at the University of Zimbabwe. Our desire in this collection is to showcase this diversity, while emphasising its common foundation — the study of human language. As such, this collection provides theoretical and applied perspectives on language at a time when such issues are of prime concern in Zimbabwe.
